

Brindle Rubber Legs

by Phil Romans

This fly is very effective on the Bltterroot early in the season, in March and April. Later in April when the golden stones begin to move, tie it with chenille with more gold in it. Fish it under and indicator very close to the banks and brush. If you are not losing flies you are not fishing it in the right place. However, you will be surprised at how many times you think you caught the bottom or brush, only to have your line pull back when you lift up as it is grabbed by a nice fish. It is easy to tie so you can go to the river with plenty.

Recipe

Hook : Dai-Riki #730 2X long shank nymph hook, size 8

Thread: 8/0 brown or green

Weight: one full wrap of 0.025 lead wire overwrapped with thread and liberally coated with cement

Tail and antenna: two strands of light brown or light burnt orange rubber legs

Legs : six, same as tail and antenna

Body: Medium black/coffee variegated chenille. Wrap the chenille to hold the legs in position.

